GRANGE MASTER URGES FARM RELIEF CITY UNDER MARTIAL LAW AFTER FLAMES; LOSS IS $25,000,000

SIX CURES OFFERED IN ADDRESS BEFORE FARMER DELEGATES

Cornell Professor Urges Community Activ- ities

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 3.—Advocating a platform of farm relief, H. A. Caxton, of Coshocton, master of the Ohio State Grange, addressed the "Grange Day" program which concluded the sixteenth annual Farmers' Week celebration, today, at Ohio State University.

"Farm relief," declared Grange Master Caxton, "may be obtained through the application of six 'cures' to the present method of farming. Economic production is one of the most important of these 'cures.' Others I could mention are: obtain new uses for farm products; co-operation with one another; adjustment of taxation; more thorough organization of farmers and equality for agriculture from the governmental standpoint."

Professor A. Felton, of Cornell University in addressing Grange members during the day, declared that "90 per cent of all rural improvement is coming about as a result of the initiative of the local community."

Professor A. Felton, of Cornell University in addressing Grange members during the day, declared that "90 per cent of all rural improvement is coming about as a result of the initiative of the local community."

Rev. W. C. Patterson, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Bethesda, asserted in a lecture this afternoon that the spirit of the old farm home should be placed in the setting of the life today.

"The character of the social life when the farm home was the center of the activities in the neighborhood, ought to be enacted into the form of living today," declared Rev. Patterson.

Two little theater plays by the Alexandria County Grange of Loudoun County, and the Jefferson Township Community of Richland County, were to close the annual observance of Farmers' Week for 1928, at a general meeting of the visitors tonight at the university chapel.

At noon today more than 6,000 persons, from all sections of Ohio and surrounding states, had registered as visitors to the week's program, setting a record for attendance of any Farmers' Week event since the first program was held, 16 years ago.

AGED MAN MURDERS WIFE, KILLS SELF

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Fisher celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last May. Their six children and their grandchildren participated to make the occasion a merry one.

Yesterday, Fisher sent two loads of heavy buckshot into his wife's head as she stood in front of a mirror. Then he reloaded, placed the muzzle of the gun in his mouth and pulled the trigger. Their bodies were discovered by a neighbor later.

Neither the police nor the children were able today to discover any motive for the tragedy. The Fishers were known as a happy couple and were in comfortable circumstances.

UNKNOWN COUPLE KILLED BY TRAIN

KENTON, O., Feb. 3.—The bodies of an unidentified middle-aged man and an unidentified young woman, victims of a crossing accident at Dunkirk were being held in a morgue here today.

The auto in which the couple was riding is said to have been struck at 2 a. m. by a west bound Pennsylvania flyer, and a few seconds later by an east bound flyer. Springfield police reported that the license number, 377,666, indicated that the auto had been stolen from that city Tuesday night.

The man's pockets contained a burial certificate issued to W. C. Safford, Springfield, R. R. No. 6.

PERFECT TIME

DENNISON, O., Feb. 3.—John White, negro, carries a watch that has no hands, but this does not prevent him from telling time accurately. John was taken into custody here yesterday and a fine of $5 suspended upon condition that he leave town within ten minutes. He looked at his watch and left. Ten minutes later he stepped over the Dennison corporation line, pointing for Oklahoma.

JUDGES DECIDING REMUS' SANITY

Whether George Remus, Cincinnati, O., wife slayer, confined in the Lima State Hospital for the Criminal Insane, is sane has been put before the third appellate court of appeals, sitting at Lima, on a writ of habeas corpus. The court: Judges Phil M. Crow, left; Kent W. Hughes, center, and Charles L. Justice, right.

FORTY SAILORS SAVE RATIONS AS FERRY REMAINS IN ICE FLOE

CONNEAUT, O., Feb. 3.—The forty sailors, composing the crew of the Carberry Maitland, which is imprisoned in a giant ice-floe a few miles from here in Lake Erie, are on short rations today and fires under the boiler are being kept down to a minimum.

Capt. J. W. Kelly, commander of the vessel ordered rations cut to two meals a day and the fires low.

STEWART DENIAL HINTS OIL DEAL MONEY WENT TO POLITICAL PARTY

Official Recalled After Defying Power Of Committee To Trace Bonds—Sheldon Clark Also Summoned

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, was confronted today at the new Teapot Dome inquiry with the alternative of revealing all he knows about the Continental Trading Company's $3,080,000 liberty bond fund or answering a citation for contempt of the senate.

The senate public lands committee, guided by Senator Thomas J. Walsh (D) of Montana, recalled Stewart to give him a chance to purge himself of potential contempt charges. The oil executive yesterday defied the committee twice, declaring the senate had no power to investigate what became the Continental bonds, $233,000 of which were traced to former Secretary of the Interior, Albert B. Fall.

In defying the committee, Stewart hinted at the sensations which he might reveal if he decided to talk.

"I never got a dollar nor a bond out of this deal personally," he said, and then added: "I have never given any bonds of any description to any political party or to any public official of the United States or of any state or territory or of any municipality in it."

It was the first public suggestion that any of the Continental bonds were believed to have gone into the treasury of a political party.

Heretofore, rumors have been current in Washington that such was the case but no person connected with the oil deals in any capacity could be found who would state it publicly.

Aside from Stewart, the committee summoned Sheldon Clark, president of the Sinclair Crude Oil Company, all the directors of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, and all the directors of the Sinclair Crude Oil Company. They were called to reveal what part they played

COUNSEL FOR VELMA TO TEST SANITY LAW

PAINESVILLE, O., Feb. 3.—Constitutionality of Ohio's new insanity defense law will be tested here Saturday or Monday, when Judge Arlington G. Reynolds will rule on the question in connection with the refusal of pretty blonde Velma West, Perry's alleged clawhammer slayer, to plead to a first degree murder indictment.

Should the jurist refuse to uphold the contention of Francis W. Poulson, counsel for Velma, then the girl will have to go on trial at a date fixed by the court, and Poulson indicates that a common law insanity defense will be raised.

The new state law specifies that the defense and type of insanity to be claimed must be specified before the trial.

Poulson declares that this angle of the case will be taken to a higher court if necessary.

Britain Honors Earl Haig

LONDON, Feb. 3.—With stirring pageantry paralleling the pomp of the middle ages, Great Britain united today to pay a national tribute in Westminster Abbey to Douglas Earl Haig, British commander during the World War and one of Britain's outstanding soldiers.

In a flash of blazing color, a gigantic procession followed the gun, carried on which Haig's body was transferred from St. Columba's Church to the abbey.

Leading the procession were the Prince of Wales, Prince Henry, the Duke of York, the Duke of Con-

DAYTON AND XENIA TRACTION CO. MAY TAKE OVER SPRINGFIELD-XENIA LINE

SPRINGFIELD LINE WILL BE PRESERVED IF OFFER ACCEPTED

Receivership Plans Abandonment Is Revealed.

The Dayton and Xenia Railway Co. may take over the operation of the Springfield and Xenia traction line, according to an announcement Thursday night by T. A. Ferneding, president of the former line.

Ferneding disclosed that his company had made such a proposition to the Springfield-Xenia company through Charles E. Service, receiver for the S. and X. line, but that the receiver has not intimated whether the proposal will be accepted or rejected.

"The proposition to the Springfield line," Ferneding said, "was made after it was learned that the Springfield-Xenia concern was considering discontinuance of its service, due to the fact that the overhead of operating the Springfield-Xenia line had reached a point that makes it unprofitable."

The Springfield-Xenia line acts as a "feeder" for the Dayton-Xenia line, connecting with the latter's car in Xenia, both lines having a joint terminal here.

If the proposition to change ownership is accepted, much of the overhead expense referred to would be eliminated, it is said.

A petition seeking discontinuance of service of the Springfield-Xenia line is understood to be on file with the state utilities commission, although no action has been taken on it.

Upon application, the S. and X. company was recently granted permission by the utilities commission to operate buses over the route now covered by the electric line. However, no action has since been taken by the company to place the buses in operation.

GIRL ARRESTED IN MYSTERY SHOOTING

DETROIT, Feb. 3.—Angeline Cervone, 33, was arrested today in connection with the slaying of Mayme Saeger, Warren, O., after an all-night party. According to police the women quarreled over the attentions of a man.

Miss Cervone denied shooting Miss Saeger. She said Miss Saeger had drawn a pistol and in a scuffle for its possession the weapon had been discharged.

YOUNGEST JUSTICE OF PEACE IS NAMED

CHARDON, O., Feb. 3.—Lester T. Reynolds, of Chardon, son of the late Common Pleas Judge Terence Reynolds, has been appointed justice of the peace at the age of 24 and is the youngest to hold that office in Ohio.

He succeeds Harold K. Bostwick, resigned, who has just passed the Ohio bar examination. He is a brother of R. H. Bostwick, defense attorney for Velma West.

FREED OF MURDER

GREENVILLE, O., Feb. 3.—Mrs. Catherine Vonderhavel, was free of manslaughter charges here today, after acquittal late yesterday, by a jury which had heard testimony in regard to the death of an illegitimate child born to her fifteen-year-old daughter. The acquittal was made on the recommendation of the court, although Mrs. Vonderhavel is said to have confessed the act.

SLAYS HUSBAND

DOVER, O., Feb. 3.—William Ware, 36, negro, is dead at Newcomerstown, near here, today, from a gunshot wound in his leg. It is thought he bled to death. His wife Willa Mae is held on a charge of homicide. The woman shot her husband late yesterday after he attacked her, according to police.

CITY UNDER MARTIAL LAW AFTER FLAMES; LOSS IS $25,000,000

Ten Firemen Injured Fighting Blaze That Destroyed Sixty-Five Buildings—Militiamen On Guard—Many Homeless

FALL RIVER, Mass., Feb. 3.—Martial law was in effect in fire-swept Fall River today.

Dead lines were established by 600 armed militiamen and sixty state troopers around a mile square area in which sixty-five buildings, large and small, were destroyed in an all-night

TEN FIREMEN HURT BATTLING FLAMES

FALL RIVER, Mass., Feb. 3.—Ten firemen were seriously injured in the conflagration that swept this city last night and early today and 300 other persons were treated for minor injuries at the emergency hospital set up in the new police station.

Most of the injured firemen sustained fractured limbs. They are John Hubbard, of New Bedford; Alfred Buckley, Stanley Terewla, Thomas Whitaker, Captain J. W. Kearnes, Lieut. J. R. Hutchins and James A. Banendurth, all of Fall River. They were taken to the hospital.

conflagration which was finally under control after causing damage estimated at $25,000,000. Ten firemen were seriously injured.

All visitors were barred. Policing arrangements were in charge of Mayor W. Parry Monks.

A majority of the population of 102,000 men, women and children were on the streets, hundreds milling about the police lines thrown up in the business district fire area.

Relief agencies were at work caring for the scores of injured and those in need of food and shelter.

Six banks damaged by flames were under heavy guard. In their fire proof vaults rested currency and valuable papers.

Twenty-five of the city's principal photographs of Marion Parker's pal buildings were in ruins in an area bounded by High, Bank, Ann, and Durfee Streets. These included three hotels, two theaters, a club, a newspaper plant and a dozen business blocks and mills.

Among the mills damaged were the Pocasset, the Union Mill and the Troy Chimney Company's mill.

Ice sheets the weary firemen from Massachusetts and Rhode Island cities and towns worked in the ruins. The National Guardsmen on duty were commanded by Colonel Harry A. Skinner. The state police were under personal command of Brigadier General Al-

PORTO RICO HONORS LINDBERGH; FLYER FETED BY HUNDREDS

Queen Of Carnival Leads Welcome To "Ambassador"

SAN JUAN, PORTO RICO, Feb. 3.—Today was another "Lindbergh Day" as the joyous residents of Porto Rico showered honors upon the famous American aviator who flew here from St. Thomas yesterday.

Col. Lindbergh awoke after a strenuous night which in turn culminated a day of such rejoicing and cheering as has never been seen here before. After being welcomed by 100,000 persons at the landing field and being hailed as a second Columbus and being officially feted by the government and other official bodies, Col. Lindbergh was the guest of honor at a reception at the governor's palace.

Later the young aviator attended the Porto Rican carnival where he was introduced to Edna Coll, queen of the carnival and one of the most beautiful young ladies in Porto Rico.

As a special tribute, Miss Coll was garbed as an aviatrix.

Col. Lindbergh spoke of the welcoming demonstration here as one of the greatest he had ever seen, and he has seen plenty of them.

He will hop off tomorrow morning for Santo Domingo. The colonel is keeping to his schedule, trying to arrive at each destination the exact minute he is due.

Great crowds gathered in the street to cheer the "Lone Eagle" when he appeared on his sightseeing jaunt. Lindbergh grinned and waved his hand.

WILL PROBE DEATH OF ALLEGED BANDIT

CANTON, O., Feb. 3.—Coroner T. C. McQuate today had issued subpoenas calling witnesses for a formal inquest into the death of Fuhrman D. Henson, 21, alleged bandit, who was fatally shot here Sunday night by Police Sgt. Otto Miller.

It will be the defense of Sgt. Miller, supported by Chief of Police Earl Hexamer, that the shooting was justifiable.

Miller and Henson tussled after it is alleged, Henson and a companion were intent upon robbing a gas filling station here.

Britain Honors Earl Haig

LONDON, Feb. 3.—With stirring pageantry paralleling the pomp of the middle ages, Great Britain united today to pay a national tribute in Westminster Abbey to Douglas Earl Haig, British commander during the World War and one of Britain's outstanding soldiers.

In a flash of blazing color, a gigantic procession followed the gun carriage on which Haig's body was transferred from St. Columba's Church to the abbey.

Leading the procession were the Prince of Wales, Prince Henry, the Duke of York, the Duke of Connaught, and a score of the highest military and naval officials and representatives of the British and allied armies.

The procession passed slowly through streets lined three deep with reverentially hatless Britons, most of whom were "Haig poppies" as a further sign of reverence for the dead field marshal.

Almost all the shops along the route were closed and windows were draped in mourning.

So that Britons throughout the entire world might hear the tribute to Earl Haig, the impressive services were broadcast over a huge radio hook-up.

The ceremony was over at 1:30 o'clock, the procession reformed and the march was slowly made to Waterloo Station. There the body was put on a train for Scotland, where Earl Haig will be buried.

The flag over the German embassy was put at half mast in tribute to the memory of the famous soldier.

The Hungarian military attaché placed a wreath of poppies upon the coffin in behalf of the Hungarian army.

DEFENSE ALIENISTS FOLLOW DRAMATIC TRIAL TESTIMONY

Hickman Alone Unaffected During Emotional Stories Told By Parents—Jurors Weep Over Child's Pictures

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 3.—Drama gave way to the unemotional terms of science in the Marion Parker kidnapping and murder trial today as defense alienists prepared to testify that William Edward Hickman was crazy when he stole and slaughtered the 12-year-old school girl.

The testimony of the expert witnesses promised to be dull and tedious in contrast with the dramatic recitals and the play on emotions which climaxed the trial yesterday.

Dull and tedious, perhaps, but the dispassionate testimony of the experts, begun late yesterday, afforded relaxation to those who sat through the suspense which crowded the dramatic second act of the court drama.

No one in the tiny room, with the exception of Hickman who sat unflickered, could possibly have stood much more of the gripping suspense.

Jurors wept when they forced their eyes to look upon the ghastly photographs of Marion Parker's mutilated body.

They shuddered when the long-bladed clasp knife which the slayer used to dissect the dead girl was flashed before them.

The father of William Edward Hickman twisted his gnarled hands and sobbed aloud as he said the woman who had been his wife had "a horror for bearing babies" and had told him that some day he would find "all the children cut up and piled on the floor."

TROY'S MUNICIPAL ELECTRIC PLANT IS EXPLAINED AT MEET

Business Men Learn Plant Is Showing Big Profits

More than 100 business men, city officials and representatives of industrial plants heard George Smith, service and safety director, Troy, O., describe the operation and advantages of the municipally-owned electric light and power plant in that city at an open banquet meeting sponsored by the Xenia Retail Merchants' Association at the Elks' Club Thursday night.

Announced by the floating of a $200,000 bond issue, Troy commenced the construction of its municipal plant in 1923, the speaker declared. This amount was found to be insufficient so another for $30,000 was issued.

SEARCH FOR GIRL TAKES NEW ANGLE

BOSTON, Feb. 3.—Search for Miss Frances St. John Smith, 18-year-old Smith College freshman, who disappeared three weeks ago, again centered in Milton today, where for three years prior to entering the Northampton institution the wealthy New York girl had been a student at Milton Academy.

Captain Thomas E. Bligh of the state detective force assigned two of his aids to investigate a report that a girl answering the description of Miss Smith had obtained work in a Milton business house on January 20.

GIRL WHO WANTED STRAIGHT LEGS CRITICAL

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Blood transfusion was resorted to today in a desperate effort to save the life of Miss Sadie Holland, 30-year-old stenographer, whose legs were amputated above the knees following a disastrous attempt to straighten them. Gangrene developed after the "beautifying" operation had been performed.

At a hearing before Inspector John W. Follmer and assistant State's Attorney Charles Mueller, Dr. Schireson declared the operation to straighten Miss Holland's legs was performed, not by himself, but by Dr. S. D. Zaph, an associate.

"I did, however, remove a scar from Miss Holland's shoulder," said Dr. Schireson. "This was done at the same time as the leg operation; that is how I happened to be present."

Dr. Schireson said the girl implored him to perform the leg-straightening operation, which she Twenty-five of the city's principal Fred F. Foote, state commissioner of buildings were in ruins in an all-night fire.

The fire, which raged from 6:30 o'clock last evening until it was placed under control at 3 a. m. today, recalled the million-dollar fire here twelve years ago.

Many times during the hectic night the residential district was threatened as sparks and fire brands fell on roofs.

SCORES FLEE FLAMES

Scores of families fled to the streets in the near-zero temperature carrying movable belongings. Bethel Synagogue on Banks Street was destroyed and a hundred families living in the vicinity of the blazing edifice left their homes.

TROY'S MUNICIPAL ELECTRIC PLANT IS EXPLAINED AT MEET

the plant failed to operate properly. It was then that Smith, representative of the General Electric Co., was obtained as director of public utilities. It was necessary to practically rebuild the plant.

"In 1923 the net earnings of the plant in its first year of municipal ownership amounted to $123,697, of which $23,145 was applied to the interest and sinking fund to care for the bond issue," he said.

"Net earnings increased to $130,066 in 1924. The plant was also further remodeled and $40,000 of the profit was laid aside for the sinking fund. In 1925 the net profit jumped to $158,608, of which $60,000 was applied to the sinking fund. The 1926 earnings totaled $163,570 and although the company began to extend its lines to the rural districts, it was found possible to place $40,000 more in the sinking fund."

"A 500-horse power boiler was added to the equipment in 1927. Lines were further extended to the country districts but the net earnings amounted to $161,192. Despite the purchase of $23,874 city bonds, the plant managed to put $40,000 in the sinking fund."

The Troy official asserted that the plant had 2,291 customers when it started operation and that it now has 2,190 consumers. It has now extended its lines within a radius of five miles of the city, has erected 766 poles and has eighty-two rural customers.

Numerous other benefits have been derived by the city. The plant supplies free light to all city buildings, including the fire department and schools and street lights.

In 1924 the city had only 221 lights and it now has 325 municipally-owned lights in addition to 220 boulevard lights. No revenue is derived from this special service.

The speaker declared himself strongly in favor of municipally-owned light plants. When any city-owned utility makes mistakes, the facts are broadcast in trade journals, but the mistakes made by privately-owned enterprises are never heard of, he said. In past years the plants never had proper equipment available.

Troy originally charged a flat rate of ten cents per kilowatt for light, he declared. As soon as the plant was on a sound financial basis the rate was gradually reduced until today a sliding scale is in effect and a much lower rate charged.

Smith declared that the last state auditor's report made in 1925, showed thirty-three municipal plants in operation in Ohio. Of this number sixteen showed a profit with Troy heading the list. Only five plants had a deficit and these losses did not amount to more than several thousand dollars whereas the gains ranged from $5,000 for the year to $160,000, the profit shown at Troy.

The Troy service director was connected with the General Electric Co. for twenty-two years and now also has charge of operation of the waterworks plant at Troy.

H. L. Binder, president of the association, introduced C. S. Frazier, who acted as toastmaster at the meeting and called upon Smith for the principal speech.

Following Smith's talk, S. M. McKay, chairman of the City Commission, talked briefly. Talks were also made by Hiveling Stokes, mayor of Troy, former Xenia city auditor, and T. H. Zell, present Xenia auditor and superintendent of the waterworks plant, who told of the successful operation of the waterworks plant here and remarked about the home-coming being planned this year.

Other visiting Troy officials included J. Warren Safford, president of the telephone company at Troy; A. C. McLung, publisher of the Troy Daily News, and G. B. Hatfield, Troy businessman. All spoke briefly.

Many Xenians were also guests, including members of the City Commission and various representatives of local industrial plants.

I Have Said in My Heart

By Leah McGinn Gibson
DOMESTIC ARBITRATION
COURT NEEDED

What seems to be the trouble with married life?

When one considers the petty causes of domestic unrest which are brought daily into the courts it looks as though some all-potential motherly pacifier were needed if marital wagers are to remain hitched to tranquil domestic stars.

Perhaps a matrimonial court of arbitration would solve the difficulty.

Ample proof of the haste with which they do grind was furnished in the supreme court recently when Justice Guy at New York assigned forty-one cases for trial in one day and all were disposed of in that period.

How many of these have acted without calm and judicious reasoning? Could some intermediary have adjusted their matrimonial affairs and strengthened their family union?

Here are news stories of recent divorces and the petty reasons given for marriage annulment.

After twenty-six years of happily married life a Chicago man asked for a divorce and was granted a decree. This is the complaint registered against his wife.

"She wanted art, opera and social life and I couldn't stand that. This idea of being in full dress and playing the part of a butterfly is no life for a business man."

A Chicago woman was granted a divorce because of golf difficulties.

"One day we decided we needed new clubs and I went out to get mine," she complained. "I asked him if I should get him some, too. He became angry and told me he didn't want a woman to pick out his sticks for him. Then I told him he wasn't much of a golfer and I never was taught anything by him. He pinched me and we never got along after that."

Memo: Don't get into the bunkers without a masher to get you out.

HUSBAND STRUCK HER WIFE ALLEGES IN DIVORCE ACTION

Alleging the defendant struck and otherwise abused her many times during their married life Cleona Rose has brought suit for divorce from Theodore Rose on grounds of extreme cruelty in Common Pleas Court.

The couple was married November 14, 1925. No children were born of the union.

Plaintiff cites one instance on the evening of January 28 when the defendant is alleged to have assaulted her and knocked her down, the blow being so violent that it left marks on the face and body.

The couple jointly purchased household goods and an automobile, according to the petition. Plaintiff seeks to be restored to her maiden name of Carlisle and asks to be awarded the household goods referred to as alimony.

Divorce is also sought in a suit filed by Leila Pemberton against Harry Pemberton, alleging gross neglect of duty. They were married at Xenia August 31, 1916. Four children were born of the marriage, Luella, 9, Harold S, Marjorie, 6, and Marcena, 4.

SALE IS ORDERED
Sale of property has been ordered in the case of Alice M. Harnes against H. E. Powers and others in Common Pleas Court.

Partition of property, asked in the petition, was denied by the court since appraisers reported the land cannot be divided without manifest injury.

The property was appraised at $95 per acre, a total of $4,750, by H. E. Bales, George Babb and William Gerard, commissioners appointed for the purpose.

VALUE ESTATES
Gross value of the estate of Elizabeth V. Smith, deceased, is estimated at $2,166.32, composed entirely of personal property, in Probate Court. Debts total $1,160.68 and the cost of administration amounts to $239.65, leaving a net, market value of $765.99.

Estate of Tisha Roberts, deceased, has an estimated gross value of $632. Debts, including the cost of administration, total $399.67 leaving a net value of $232.33.

HEARING CONTINUED
Hearing of an application filed in Probate Court asking that the will of Elta G. Lowry, deceased, be admitted to probate and record, was continued from Wednesday until Saturday, February 4 at 10 a. m. by order of the court.

INVENTORY FILED
Coroner Frank M. Chambliss has filed an inventory in Probate Court containing a list of articles taken from the body of Frank Bosse, deceased. The court ordered the articles turned over again to the coroner in part payment of a bill held by Chambliss against the decedent.

Nuptials Celebrated On Thursday Evening

Turquoise blue georgette, banded in brilliant, with a filmy veil of the same shade, composed the bridal outfit of Miss Martha Bryson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bryson, who became the bride of Mr. Marilyn McDorman, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McDorman, Selma, at the Bryson home on the Springfield Pike, Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

Sixty-five relatives and friends of the couple witnessed the ceremony. The reception rooms were decorated with flat cedar, with white tulle and archways covered with the cedar.

Preceding the entrance of the bride party, Mrs. J. Robert Bryson played "Lonegryn's Wedding March," accompanying Miss Martha Bryson and Mrs. Graham Bryson who sang original words for the music. They also sang "O Promise Me" and "Love Like the Dawn Came Stealing." Mrs. Bryson then blended into the wedding march, on the entrance of the flower girl, Helen Louise Bryson, niece of the bride and the ribbon bearers, William Elsthor Anderson and Nancy Jean Anderson, dressed in white.

Helen Louise wore a frock of pink flowered material and carried a basket of rose petals. The ring bearer was the bridegroom's niece, Miriam McDorman, who wore white. The bride's maid, Miss Wilma Shillito, Burgettstown, Pa., gown in pink georgette, and with an arm bouquet of Ophelia roses, walked next.

The bride came down the stairs alone and was met by her father, who gave her in marriage. Her bridal gown and veil which emphasized her blonde beauty, was completed with white footwear and a shower of bride's roses and valley lilies. Her veil was caught with real orange blossoms.

The bridegroom and his groomsmen, the bride's brother, Mr. James Bryson, met the bride and her attendants at the improvised altar, before the double windows in the living room. The double ring ceremony was performed by Dr. H. B. McElree, pastor of Second U. P. Church, assisted by the Rev. Lawrence Ferguson, Richmond, Ind.

After the ceremony, a four-course dinner was served. Covers were laid at the bride's table for Miss Wilma Shillito, Mr. James Bryson, Miss Fannie Agle, Mr. Gerald Thompson, Miss Esther Smith, Mr. Homer McDorman, Miss Sarah Haines, Mr. Raymond Batlin, Miss Pauline Thomas, all of Selma; Mr. David Bryson, Miss Marjorie Douthett, Miss Mary Elizabeth Bryson, Miss Louise Collins and Mr. Leroy Henshaw.

The bride cut the wedding cake with a knife used by Mr. McDorman's great-grandmother at her wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. McDorman left on a motor trip and will return in ten days to reside at Shadyville Farm, near Selma. Mrs. McDorman's traveling outfit included a frock of blue Romaine cloth, with a tan coat trimmed in red fox, a blue taffeta and straw hat and tan accessories.

Mrs. McDorman attended Muskingum College and has been teaching school at Selma three years.

Mr. McDorman attended Wittenberg College and is a graduate of Selma High School.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 3.—Nineteen twenty-eight promises to be an other year of exceptional activity in the great industry of building construction. The value of new building work exceeded $6,000,000,000 in 1927, and that total should be approximated in the current year.

These are figures for the United States. Residential construction is on the decline and probably will continue to drop. However, large public works and public utility projects are on a rising curve.

This is the forecast made by Joseph R. Nutt, president of the Union Trust Company, Cleveland, one of the largest banks in America.

Pillar of Prosperity
"Building construction is one of the great supporting pillars of general prosperity," Nutt says. "For that reason it is of favorable significance for all business that signs are good for the industry in 1928."

"Building has been so active in recent years that the widespread expectations of a coming slump are not to be wondered at. Actually what is happening is a decline in residential building which is being made up by gains in other kinds of construction."

"The initial stages of the post-war boom in building were based upon an acute shortage of homes and apartments due to war-time restrictions. But this shortage has been made up. In fact, in a great many cities there now exists an over supply of family accommodations. Future building of this sort will be in response to normal needs and growth. There is, moreover, a decided shift in residential building from the north and east to the south and west, and from large centers to the smaller communities."

Utility Building Active
"Meanwhile, another form of building has been coming to the front. I refer to public utility and public works projects. These are large operations, involving large sums of money, and giving employment to much labor. This class of building has been stimulated by easy credit conditions, the large increase in educational buildings, and the widespread development of public utilities in keeping with the rising standards of living in this country."

"In 1927 residential building contracts declined by $100,000,000. Public works and utility projects in 1927 comprised one-sixth of the total of all building, and in 1927 they had advanced to one-fourth of the total."

WRIGHT IS SENDING FIRST AIRPLANE TO LONDON FOR EXHIBIT

DAYTON, O., Feb. 3.—Wright brothers airplane, in which Orville Wright made the first flight at Kitty Hawk, N. C., Dec. 17, 1903, is enroute to England where it may be permanently exhibited in the museum of science, South Kensington, London, it became known here today. The quaint old flying machine was shipped Wednesday by Orville Wright after several years of debate with the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C., which credits the Langley ship, exhibited there with having made the first successful flight in America in a heavier than air machine.

The decision of Orville Wright to send the historical old airplane to the British museum, followed several years of controversy in which Grover Loening of the Loening Aircraft Corporation, New York, and other aviation enthusiasts strove to have the Wright machine become an exhibit in the Smithsonian Institution. The late Dr. Alexander W. Wolcott, director of the Smithsonian Institution had credited the Langley machine with making the first flight. Orville Wright claimed that honor for the machine which he and his brother Wilbur had built and flown.

Langley was associated with the Smithsonian Institute at the time he is credited with having flown his "two masted" airship from Virginia across the Potomac River into the District of Columbia. The flight at Kill Devil Hill, Kitty Hawk, is credited with having lasted fifty-one seconds.

In commenting upon his decision to send the Wright ship to England, Orville Wright today declared he harbored no ill will against government authorities, but feels that those directing the Smithsonian Institute are at fault.

Nuptials Celebrated On Thursday Evening

Turquoise blue georgette, banded in brilliant, with a filmy veil of the same shade, composed the bridal outfit of Miss Martha Bryson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bryson, who became the bride of Mr. Marlyn McDorman, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McDorman, Selma, at the Bryson home on the Springfield Pike, Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Sixty-five relatives and friends of the couple witnessed the ceremony. The reception rooms were decorated with flat cedar, with white trellises and archways covered with the cedar.

Proceeding the entrance of the bride party, Mrs. J. Robert Bryson played "Lonegrip's Wedding March," accompanying Miss Martha Anderson and Mrs. Graham Bryson who sang original words for the music. They also sang "O Promise Me" and "Love Like the Dawn Came Stealing." Mrs. Bryson came Stealing.

McCLELLAND W. C. T. U. HOLDS ALL-DAY MEETING.

An interesting program was enjoyed by members of McClelland W. C. T. U., and visitors at the all-day institute held at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Manor Wednesday.

During the morning session members served for a needy family. The business meeting, in charge of the president, was also held before noon. Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Earl McClelland.

Beginning the afternoon program, Mrs. Dean Moore and Mrs. Percy Smith sang a duet. Mrs. William Weiss gave delightful readings. Miss Viola Pardon, Red Cross secretary, furnished a report of her work and Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson, of the Juvenile Branch of Probate Court, also gave a description of her work.

Mrs. Anderson declared that, in her opinion, supervised recreation would be a good thing for young people. If more money was spent to prevent crime instead of to punish crime, conditions would be better, she said.

Members also brought a donation for a needy family. A covered dish dinner was served at noon. A feature of the dinner was a large birthday cake honoring the patriotic birthdays of the month and also as a surprise for the hostess, whose birthday was on the day of the meeting.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 3.—Nineteen twenty-eight promises to be another year of exceptional activity in the great industry of building construction. The value of new building work exceeded $4,000,000,000 in 1927, and that total should be approximated in the current year.

These are figures for the United States. Residential construction is on the decline and probably will continue to drop. However, large public works and public utility projects are on a rising curve. "This is the forecast made by Joseph R. Nutt, president of the Union Trust Company, Cleveland, one of the largest banks in America.

Pillar of Prosperity
"Building construction is one of the great supporting pillars of general prosperity," Nutt says.

JOE HERR ENLISTS FOR NAVY SERVICE

WRIGHT IS SENDING FIRST AIRPLANE TO LONDON FOR EXHIBIT

DAYTON, O., Feb. 3.—Wright brothers airplane, in which Orville Wright made the first flight at Kitty Hawk, N. C., Dec. 17, 1903, is enroute to England where it may be permanently exhibited in the museum of science, South Kensington, London, it became known here today. The quaint old flying machine was shipped Wednesday by Orville Wright after several years of debate with the Smithsonian Institute, Washington, D. C., which credits the Langley ship, exhibited there with having made the first successful flight in America in a heavier than air machine.

The decision of Orville Wright to send the historical old airplane to the British museum, followed several years of controversy in which Grover Loening of the Loening Aircraft Corporation, New York, and other aviation enthusiasts strove to have the Wright machine become an exhibit in the Smithsonian Institute. The late Dr. Alexander W. Wolcott, director of the Smithsonian Institute had credited the Langley machine with making the first flight. Orville Wright claimed that honor for the machine which he and his brother Wilbur had built and flown.

Langley, was associated with the Smithsonian Institute at the time he is credited with having flown his "two masted" airship from Virginia across the Potomac River into the District of Columbia. The flight at Kill Devil Hill, Kitty Hawk, is credited with having lasted fifty-five seconds.

In commenting upon his decision to send the Wright ship to England, Orville Wright today declared he harbored no ill will against government authorities, but feels that those directing the Smithsonian Institute are at fault.

VOL. II FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1928. NO. 13

Yes, sir, there's no place like home. Where else can a fellow trust the hash?

We are expecting the car of hominy in at most any time. If you are interested, better have us call you when it arrives.

The Boss: "Robert, I hope you try to save half of what you earn."

Office Boy: "I don't get that much, sir."

Six weeks more of winter—that's sure now. Mr. Groundhog says so. Better call us for some coal.

No woman ever gets the swell head to such an extent that she can't wedge her way into a beauty shop.

"Since I bought a car I don't have to walk to the bank to make my deposits."

"Ah, you ride there now?"

"No, I don't make any deposits."

We are also expecting the car of corn. It's real nice corn, will grade No. 2, in the ear and shells about 57 lbs. to the bushel.

The trouble seems to be that there is no room in a driver for both horse sense and white mule.

We just received a large shipment of Kow Kare in the 65c and $1.25 sizes. Nothing better for the milch cow.

Customer: "Waiter, what's wrong with this chicken?"

Waiter: "It's been in a fight, sir."

Customer: "Well, take it back and bring me the winner."

We also have a car of fresh Ubiko balanced rations order. ed. Plenty of good, old wholesome Union Grain Dairy and Ubiko Pig and Hog Ration 25 per cent at the right price.

SUNLIGHT BLOTTERS

Dirty and dingy buildings are called "sunlight blotters," by L. T. Smith, president of the Building Managers and Owners' association of New York. He points out how dingy surfaces seem to "sop up" the light, while clean and cheerful looking buildings will reflect it down to the streets.

There is a great deal of truth in his remark. People feel more confident and optimistic when they are surrounded by cheerful looking buildings, and it probably has an effect on health. Anyway a town made up of well kept buildings looks more hopeful and it draws business.

ELECTRIC POWER ON THE FARM

That electricity will soon become an important factor in farming operations is evident from the experiments that are being conducted in many sections of the country. It not only saves time, but expense for labor as well. In a dairy of 40 cows in Missouri, hand milking for a period of two months was compared with machine milking. Including interest and depreciation on the equipment, the cost of machine milking was 22 per cent lower than that of hand milking, and the machine reduced the amount of hand by one-half.

The advantage of using electric current for cooking, lighting, vacuum cleaners, washing machine, mangles, and other household conveniences too numerous to mention is generally known and appreciated.

AIRPLANES DWARF MAPS

When Colonel Lindbergh flew to Central America, he completely wrecked the old map of the North American continent as it existed in people's minds. Mexico and the Caribbean countries, which used to be "way off down there" on the map, suddenly became just one long hop from Washington.

Less spectacularly, the commercial fliers are quietly dwarfing the map of America as they skim through the air, cutting travel time in thirds. But the real significance of this fact lies, not in the mere rapid transportation, but in the question of how it effects our attitude toward business.

Presenting the recent experiences of the test airplane of the A. W. Shaw company, The Magazine of Business gives new time distances in the United States. "Cleveland is now but three hours from Chicago. Detroit is even less. Buffalo to Chicago can be negotiated in less than five hours. And New York and Chicago are but eight hours apart—under most favorable conditions perhaps little more than seven, and under adverse conditions, not much more than nine. Washington is some two hours from New York, with Richmond but a scant hour beyond. From coast to coast it is but 32 hours under average conditions. From Canada to the Gulf would, of course, be correspondingly a much shorter trip."

This means that those who may have felt that our markets were restricted to certain limited geographical territories now are offered an opportunity to carry on in areas that have heretofore been forbidden. It opens up not only the markets of our own nation, but it brings Canada, Mexico, the Central American states and even South America, into the class of potential markets.

STRAIN

To do your work without "strain" is a habit that adds more than almost anything to human comfort and happiness. No work is too difficult if one can learn to do it without strain. Pep talkers urge you to jump into your jobs. There is a lot of bunk in pep talking. To do a thing deliberately, easily, with your feet on the ground, will get you further than leaping at things.

PRETTY NURSES

The pretty girl has to face a lot of criticism of one kind and another. She is supposed to be a total loss in intelligence because she is beautiful. It seems to be an accepted fallacy that if a stenographer or clerk or any kind of a young lady employe is pretty she must be dumb. Take your choice, says the old tradition—efficiency with shiny nose or stupidity with beauty.

Comes now the president of the American Nurses' association, Miss Adda Eldridge, and says pretty nurses are more effective than ones that are not. They are good to look at. They have the right effect on the patient. They help to cure. The superintendent of a Chicago hospital agrees with her.

So much for the nurses. Who'll speak for the others?

EXPLAINED AT LAST

Temperament in opera singers and other musicians is explained at last. It's merely an overdose of music. One may not study or teach music for more than six years without feeling the effect on the nerves. No less an authority than Dr. Charles Mayo, of Rochester, tells this to a Chicago association interested in civic concerts.

Music affects the nerves of the arms and legs. Why? Because those nerves have their center in the base of the brain where the auditory nerves are placed. That's why jazz tickles the feet.

Is radio destined to make a nervous nation more nervous?

SALESMANSHIP

This year is seeing the severest competition ever known in the automobile industry. Already clever salesmen are destined to develop into still smoother ones. The world grows increasingly competitive. Young fellows, now in school or just out, better recognize that fact. Not so easy to get by as it used to be. More experience is constantly developed. This new competition in the motor world will do wonders for the brains of salesmen.

New Yorker

—By—
BURTON RASCOE

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Some hard working compiler of statistics for (of all things) the New York Tribune, has determined that without doubt Manhattan is the city of youth. At present there are 350,000 more men and women, between the ages of 20 and 45, in New York City, than in any other American community. Also, men between the ages of 30 and 35 are 20 per cent more numerous here than in other cities in the country.

No wonder the girls come flocking here, from Maine to California, avowedly to get jobs, but actually to see how the matrimonial pickings are in the big city. I firmly believe that New York is the healthiest marriage market in the world, since so many young people, without the more or less satisfactory background of home life, concentrate definitely on marriage.

I do not mean to say that in smaller cities, where the average girl has a presentable home, parents to exploit her, a group of friends to furnish her with the necessary aura of popularity, romance hides out completely. The society columns of the average small town paper would belie my statement, if I were to make one so foolish. But I am of the opinion that romance flourishes more luxuriously when man and girl are left to work out the situation for themselves, without well meaning interference from family or acquaintances.

Thus, in New York, where sometimes a complete isolation is possible, young and happy marriages abound. Often the working girl is able to meet men of a higher type than those she knew back home, because of her business connections. And since glamor is an important factor in the making of romance, this also helps matters along.

END OF THE GRAND TOUR

About the only thing done on this boat with official sanction that seems to me in poor taste is the practice, common to most liners, I believe, of holding a big entertainment for the purpose of raising money for the widows and orphans of sailors.

Passengers cannot well avoid attending such an entertainment, and not to contribute would make one conspicuous. This, it seems to me, is taking unfair advantage. If a prosperous steamship company, successfully operating great liners, pays their employees as well as they should, and as they probably do, then the employees can carry enough insurance to provide for their widows and orphans.

I see no more justification in asking me to help support the orphans of employes of a steamship line, just because I happen to ride on one of their boats, than for the General Motors Corporation to pass the hat, on behalf of orphans of their salesmen, just because I bought, say, a Chevrolet car.

Although on a certain day the ocean looks as expansive as ever, there is an unmistakable something in the air.

Great stacks of trunks are being hoisted from the hold. Other boats, more numerous than for several days, begin to appear.

Even water-soaked planks are to be seen floating about.

In one's stateroom is a printed notice which says substantially:

"So that every one may have with his luncheon before the bar closes at the twelve-mile limit, the noon meal today will be served an hour earlier than usual."

Thus, by the thoughtfulness of the steamship company, one is spared the hardship and humiliation of having to gulp down his midday ration in crude fashion without aid of wine. Personally, I live in an almost constant state of terror lest some day I must face the possibility of lunching without either wine or finger bowls.

The shore of Long Island appears.

Ambrose light!

The New York sky line.

There is the State of Liberty.

The ship band moves up into the companionway and plays stirring tunes.

Strange little hot flashes begin to run up and down one's spinal column.

Passengers are running about excitedly, asking one another:

"Do you think there would be any danger if I have it all just in my overcoat pockets?" Or—

"At the worst they wouldn't any more than confiscate it, would they?"

"Yes, I'm glad to be home," remarks a man with watery-blue eyes, in a voice strangely free from enthusiasm, "but I'd like to have had another month over there. Then I could have seen it ALL."

They're lowering the gangplank! Customs officers are amazingly courteous and inclined to take one's word. It seems wicked to lie to so charming fellows!

New York taxicab men. Shouts of "Wah whutter you gunna do about it?"

You get that way? "Say how do you get that way?" "Wait a minute! Wait a minute!"

We're home.

THE REJUVENATING EGG MASK TREATMENT

The mask treatment is a real treat to the aging skin. It is a treatment for which women spend all the way from $10 on up to unbelievable sums. Women of the aristocracy, and those prominent in social circles all over the world, revel in it as the most luxurious of all treatments. The most famous mask treatment is given in combination with a rare blend of eastern oils that are very costly and difficult to procure. A certain Egyptian mask treatment which has been famous with the beauties of the Spanish and French courts, is now being used to a considerable extent in this country.

The mask treatment which I am going to describe to you today is the egg mask. Begin the treatment with the cleansing and stimulating steps. Then mix the yolk of an egg thoroughly and apply it all over your face and neck, except your eyes. It is especially good to mix it with a little of your muscle-tightening balsam. While the mask is on your face, place a thin strip of absorbent cotton saturated in a heated astringent anti-wrinkle lotion over your eyes.

Recline on a bed or lounge and relax while the mask dries. It is best not to use a pillow and hold your chin well up.

After the mask has thoroughly dried, the compress over your eyes should be taken off. Then cut little strips of absorbent cotton about six inches long and three inches wide, and dip them in cold water. Lay these around your neck, down the sides of your face, over your chin, forehead, and across the bridge of your nose, so that your entire face is covered with them, with the exception of your nostrils. Pat the moistened cotton all over. Then begin at the forehead and roll it down over your face. As the cotton is rolled off, it will take all the egg mask with it.

The skin will be left fresh and smooth and lovely looking. Finish by bathing your face and throat with your astringent, skin-tightening lotion.

This egg mask treatment should be used at regular intervals to take the place of your regular rejuvenating treatment, or on occasions when you want your skin to look particularly lovely.

HOW MUCH SLEEP DO WE NEED?

Do you suffer from insomnia? Of course, if you are ill and in pain and discomfort, you can expect this, but if you are apparently well, there must be other factors operating.

I told you yesterday that the most frequent causes of insomnia was too intense thinking of problems, past and present; and in order to stop that you must divert your attention to something monotonous and uninteresting. Counting sheep, counting backwards, slowly, beginning at 999 and seeing yourself paint the numbers in large letters on a billboard, say, and constant repetition of quotation of quotations, etc., can be tried.

The success of this procedure depends upon your persistently sticking to it. You'll find your thoughts will wander back to your problem, but snap them away and put them on the monotonous thing again. Naturally, you must be relaxed and comfortable. If it is cold, have sufficient lightweight covering to keep you warm and if necessary take some heating device to bed—a hot water bag, for instance. Don't be afraid to adopt such measures, as they are not "weakening." Have your steam shut off and a good circulation of fresh air. That is very important.

There are other things that cause wakefulness—tea and coffee are factors in some; under-eating and over-eating (especially at night); if you are reducing, you may have to save 100 C. of your allowance to take before going to bed, preferably hot skim milk or hot vegetable broth, two or three soda crackers, etc. A prolonged bath at body temperature is helpful to some, and a walk just before retiring is also helpful.

Remember this precaution: DON'T TAKE SLEEPING MEDICINES EXCEPT UNDER THE SUPERVISION OF YOUR PHYSICIAN; THEY ARE DANGEROUS!

EFFECTS OF LACK OF SLEEP

A prolonged lack of sleep may be one of the factors in producing nervous exhaustion and a so-called nervous breakdown. Recently some experiments have been conducted at the University of Wisconsin Medical school. Rabbits were placed in cylindrical cages so that the animals could not sleep. Food and water were always available.

Studies of the nerves, brain and spinal cord showed actual structural damages to them. Now, I don't know whether I should have told you this or not. Those of you who are suffering from insomnia are going to have an added worry! However, I'll leave it, with this assurance: If you lead a hygienic life, spend enough time in complete relaxation in your bed, and force yourself to stop thinking intensely by such method as I have told you, you can overcome the habit of insomnia. It is a bad habit. And like other bad habits, it can be stopped.

How Much Sleep Do We Need? There is an old English saying concerning sleep: "Nature requires five hours, custom gives seven, laziness takes nine, and wickedness takes eleven." However, we believe that five hours are not sufficient; eight hours of complete rest in bed are required for the average person. If you are resting quietly part of the eight hours, and are not worrying because you don't happen to be sleeping, Nature will be storing up energy during the rest hours as she does during sleep, although not quite so effectively. Those who are nervous and underweight should rest in bed more than eight hours.

It is believed that the famous historical characters who are reputed to have slept very little at night—Franklin, Napoleon, and others—took naps during the day. Edison is reported to sleep but four hours a night, but I have read that he has a couch in his laboratory and he takes many short rests during the day.

MENU HINT

Do you eat enough fruit? If you don't, reform at once. You may not be able to afford strawberries in February or even grapefruits and oranges, but you can eat apples, prunes, cranberries, cooked tomatoes—yes, tomatoes are classed as fruits. Many of the sides around your neck, down the sides of your face, over your chin, forehead, and across the bridge of your nose, so that your entire face is covered with them, with the exception of your nostrils. Baked Beans—Brown Bread Cabbage Salad, Home-made Catsup Baked Apples, Graham Crackers Coffee

TODAY'S RECIPES

Baked Beans—Here is my favorite baked bean recipe. If your family prefers them without tomato, well and good. Soak one pound of navy beans in cold water overnight. The business woman can put them on to soak in the morning and cook them in the evening. Pour off the water, put on fresh, add a little soda and let come to a boil. Pour water off, put on fresh and cook until the skins of the beans will roll up when you blow upon a few held in a spoon. Put in baking dish or bean pot, add one teaspoon or more of salt, a tablespoon of molasses or brown sugar, a teaspoon of dry mustard mixed in cold water, a cup of tomatoes—strained or not, as you prefer—or a can of tomato soup, a small piece of butter, and a little paprika. Bake in hot oven until nicely browned.

Quick Baked Apples—Prepare apples as for baking, arrange in a pudding dish and fill with brown sugar and top with a little cinnamon. Cover bottom of dish with a little water and place on top of stove or a low burner. Put a tight lid on and cook until done. Saves time and fuel.

CHEESE DISH

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe)

THE CROWS' REVENGE

Hardly had their chieftain spoken when the crows began to form in line, two by two, and in almost no time at all they started, with a cry, to fly over the ground, just as their leader had commanded.

Events had happened so quickly that Peter had been taken by surprise. The crows had left him before he had a chance to say a word. There the boy stood, alone, a deserted guest, and now, for the first time he began to notice that his feet were growing cold. He stamped them up and down to get them warm again.

"Birds are every bit as bad as insects," grumbled Peter, aloud. "One never can tell what they are going to do next." The idea of Father Crow insisting that he was flying over here to visit the tribe and then going off and forgetting all about me. I don't blame him much, though! I expect old White has caused all the birds a lot of trouble.

I hardly ever saw that cat last spring when he didn't have a nestling in his mouth. What can the birds be going to do? I don't see how, try as they may, they can do very much to frighten that wild Tom cat. Good gracious! Look at that! White's afraid of the crows, as sure as I am born. See how he runs! I may as well hurry over and see what happens. There is no reason why I should stay around here."

By this time the crows were raising a great hubbub. The sight of their old enemy lashed them to fury. They scolded and screamed, and every now and again they would sink to the level of the snow—and so it seemed to the boy—and then, swift as arrows, soar up into the blue again.

As for White the cat, for once in his life at least, he was almost at his wits' end.

"Oh, how I wish that I had left these crows' nests alone," mowed the cat, forlornly. "It is too late to think about that now, however. I am in for it, and I must save myself as best I can. Confound that black spot on my back, anyhow. It was stupid of me to forget it, for, of course, that is what

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—To have offices in the Capitol itself, instead of the Senate or House office building, is a great honor for a member of congress.

The Capitol offices are inconvenient. They're dark, stuffy, dismal. But they're exclusive, classy.

Some lawmakers who occupy them are exceedingly old timers, who acquired 'em back in the days when there were no regular office buildings, and still hang onto 'em.

Vice President Dawes and Speaker Longworth have suites immediately adjoining the senate and representatives' chamber. That's logical.

There's likewise some sense in Capitol offices for Representatives Tilton and Finis Garrett, respectively Republican and Democratic leaders in the lower house, and for Tilton's assistant leader, Representative Begg.

They're kept so busy that a matter of a few steps is quite a consideration to 'em.

I can also see why for sentimental reasons, Senator Warren, oldest member of the senate; Representative Henry Allen Cooper, oldest member of the house; and Representative Burton, Madden and Poy, nearly as old, like to stick to their original quarters, under the dome.

Offices like Warren's and Cooper's aren't so bad, anyway. They're on the main floor, not entirely shut off from light and air, and fairly habitable.

But Senator Simmons! Why in tunket does he cling to those dungeons of his? In preference to comfortable, modern rooms, only the width of one street away, with nearly all the rest of the solons.

Simmons' suite is in what's known as the "old library space" at the Capitol—"gallery floor." Perhaps you think you could find him, from this description. Well, if ever you have occasion to try it, be warned—hire a guide. Make sure he's explored that part of the building, too. Not all of 'em have.

Start alone—even with a fancy set of directions to go by—and you not only won't get to Simmons, but you're liable to lose yourself entirely, so that you can't get out, and wander around—up and down stairs, through gloomy corridors and in and out of empty, echoing rotundas—until, maybe you don't starve, but you're lucky if you don't run out of smoking tobacco.

The Capitol, mind you, covers at least two good, big city blocks, and it was built a little at a time, each piece without any regard for any other piece—not to mention being partly burned up by the British—into the worst jumbled-up catacomb in America.

Mammoth Cave has nothing on it.

The lairs of Senator Simmons, and a few representatives, like Gibson, Leavitt and McFadden are at the very center of this puzzle—its center, vertically and horizontally.

Representatives Cramton, Kiess, Lehibach, MacGregor, Porter, Snell and Treadway are mites in the same cheese.

MacGregor can't help himself. He's chairman of the committee on accounts—virtually manager of the building. The others must make it their home simply because they like it.

A few more—Representatives Green of Iowa, Olfield and Underhill, for instance—have offices in the historic edifice, in connection with committee rooms, but they have offices over the way, too, in the regular office building. They don't really "belong." They come up for air occasionally.

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

IT WILL NOT DOWN

The question of whether the girl should tell her lover of her misdeeds simply will not down, and it is almost impossible to settle it, as "circumstances alter cases."

I wonder so much what my readers would advise the girl who writes the following letter:

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a girl 18. Two years ago I went with a boy and we became very intimate, and you know what happened. I repented it, and when I became engaged, about a year ago, I told my future husband about it. He threw me over completely. I thought I could never be happy again until I met the man to whom I am now engaged. Now, dear Mrs. Lee, should I tell him? I don't feel that I could be happy with him unless I told him, but I would be heartbroken if he, too, deserted me."

"Disgraced."

If you can't be happy without telling him, dear, you'll have to run the risk. Surely any man that was worth while, could forgive even so serious a fault in a little girl of 16, especially if she is brave enough to confess it. Men expect women to forgive so much, why can't they be generous and broadminded too?

"Won't Pet" answers "Flip and Flop," who stated that one might sit in a corner all evening without attention if they did not pet. He says:

"I must say they have the wrong opinion about the opposite sex. They can't judge every one by just a few. As for myself, will say that I am 20 years old and would enjoy very much 'sitting in the corner all evening' with a real nice, old-fashioned girl. I believe, in having a good time, and it can be had without 'petting'."

I cannot give you addresses of any girls, however, "Won't Pet." Look about among the girls you know. I'm sure you'll find some old-fashioned ones there.

Does "Sister Wanted" still need a sister to take an interest in helping her with her home? I have a letter from a girl who would like the place.

Peter's Adventure

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

THE CROWS' REVENGE

Hardly had their chieftain spoken when the crows began to form in line, two by two, and in almost no time at all they started, with a cry, to fly over the ground, just as their leader had commanded.

Events had happened so quickly that Peter had been taken by surprise. The crows had left him before he had a chance to say a word. There the boy stood, alone, a deserted guest, and now, for the first time he began to notice that his feet were growing cold. He stamped them up and down to get them warm again.

"Birds are every bit as bad as insects," grumbled Peter, aloud. "One never can tell what they are going to do next." The idea of Father Crow insisting that he was flying over here to visit the tribe and then going off and forgetting all about me. I don't blame him much, though! I expect old White has caused all the birds a lot of trouble.

I hardly ever saw that cat last spring when he didn't have a nestling in his mouth. What can the birds be going to do? I don't see how, try as they may, they can do very much to frighten that wild Tom cat. Good gracious! Look at that! White's afraid of the crows, as sure as I am born. See how he runs! I may as well hurry over and see what happens. There is no reason why I should stay around here."

YELLOW JACKETS BEAT RIO GRANDE

The Cedarville College "Yellow-Jackets" wrote their eleventh victory into the season's basketball record by registering a decisive 39 to 27 victory over Rio Grande College on the latter's floor Thursday night.

Coach Marvin Borst took ten players along on the trip and all were given a chance to play.

Allen and Fisher, substitute forwards, starred for Cedarville.

Cedarville has arranged to play Kentucky Wesleyan College at Winchester, Ky., Saturday night and is negotiating for a game with another team in the same vicinity for Friday night.

Bowling

The Red Wing Co., put a crimp in the championship hopes of the league-leading Downton Country Club by winning three straight games from the pacemakers in a City League match Thursday night.

It marked the first time this season the country club quintet has dropped three games in a row. Fine rolling of Gannon and White was mainly responsible for the triple victory. White contributed three 195 games for a 585 total, closely followed by Gannon with a series of 577. John Purdom was in great form and topped the attack of the losing team with 584. Box score:

DEMPSEY'S EYES TO PAY PENALTY

How Jack Dempsey may look, according to the artist, in spectacles now that his physician has forbidden him to box because of danger to his sight. He is shown with his wife. Below, left, Sam Langford, and Pete Kid Herman, two other famed fighters whose ring career impaired their eyesight.

Sports Done Brown

By NORMAN E. BROWN

The Cleveland ball club has suggested to Walter Brown, rookie hurler, that he have his tonsils removed as a possible cure for the wildness in the pitcher's box that handicapped him last season.

The move was made after doctors suggested that the wildness of his arm might be caused by the wild tonsils roaming around his Adam's apple.

Which opens up an interesting field of research.

Carried further, this idea might be tried by worried wives on wild husbands. Perhaps a set of irresponsible tonsils rather than the prevalence of dimpled knees is the cause of his having so many business conferences at night.

It might even explain the disposition of the March hare.

Many a pitcher, having suffered a poor year in his league—based on final standings in the won and lost column—breaks out with the excuse that his poor showing was due partly because of the instance of the manager that the hurler work when he (the hurler) was "not in good shape."

Which raises the question as to who shall be the judge.

There has been an ever growing tendency on the part of pitchers of recent years to shirk their work.

Sport Ritticisms by BILL RITT

The nerve wracking sight of Champ Gene Tunney in a pair of golf britches startled the sporting world. Now we're to see Jack Dempsey in a set of cheaters.

It seems the ex-champ's kilt has backfired and he has to hang a pair of costly windshields on his upholstered nose.

There's nothing so demoralizing as the picture of an Old Man Mauler viewing the world through a Sunday school super's face harp.

For the first time in his life it will be possible to mistake Dempsey for a librarian. It will probably break his heart.

Imagine the embarrassment of a professional pitcher finding himself perched on the Dempsonian superstructure. It must feel as nervous as a slug in a slot machine.

Dempsey's doctor is trying to keep him out of the ring. Something like 200 heavyweights have tried that for the last twelve years.

Dempsey was a great heavy-weight but not even he can have gloves bounce off his eyelashes all his life and not even blink.

HOG STOLEN AND KILLED ON FARM

Authorities are without a clue to the identity of an intruder who slaughtered and carried off a 300-pound black-spotted Poland China hog, valued at $25 on the farm of T. J. Wright, Winchester Road, off the Wilmington Pike, Thursday night.

Wright spent the night at the home of a sister, on a neighboring farm, and his own house was uncupied over night.

The thief first struck one hog over the head but it managed to scramble away. He then killed another hog and carried it away in an automobile. It was found necessary to kill the other hog because of its injuries.

O. H. Cornwell, county road patrolman, who investigated Friday, was unable to find the weapon used but believes it was a stone-hammer.

There were eight hogs in the pen at the time.

NEW COUNTY NURSE VISITS HERE FRIDAY

Mrs. Pearl Wittenmyer, new Greene County District health nurse, spent Friday in Xenia, en route to Greenville, Darke County, where she will assist in a week's health demonstration, under the Rockefeller Institute.

Mrs. Wittenmyer will begin her duties in Greene County February 13. Her territory will be entirely outside of Xenia city.

She comes here from Sciota County where she has been located two years. She has also had wide experience in health work in Guernsey and Highland Counties.

NEW PHOTO OF "CINDERELLA GIRL"

Here is another and exclusive picture of Miss Lydie Roberts Marland of Philadelphia, who is to marry her adopted father, E. W. Marland of Kansas City. She was adopted by her future husband twelve years ago and the adoption has been annulled so that the marital ceremony may take place.

KIP'S SISTER SEEKING DIVORCE?

Photo shows Mr. and Mrs. Julian St. Charles Shackno of Paris and New York, who are reported to be separated. Mrs. Shackno, sister of Leonard Kip Rhineland, is expected to soon sue for divorce.

WEALTHY YOUTH WEDS SINGER

Friends of Frederick Lothrop Ames, of Boston, wealthy 23-year-old sportsman and lover of adventure, who startled Boston social circles by meeting, courting and marrying Mlle. Maurice Mozette, singer and night club entertainer of Nogales, Ariz., in three weeks, while on a transcontinental air tour, recall he usually preferred the throb of a gasoline engine to feminine charms. Mlle. Mozette is shown above at the wheel of a racing car. She has participated in several races. Ames, inset, is a member of one of the oldest families in the country and grandson of Oliver Ames, first president of the Union Pacific railroad. The marriage took place at Tucson, Ariz.

GETTING READY FOR EPOCHAL FLIGHT INTO ARCTIC

Captain George H. Wilkins, well known explorer, is tuning up his new airplane for further flights into the Arctic, at Los Angeles. Top photo shows the plane which has a range of 3,000 miles, gas capacity of 370 gallons and speed of 115 miles an hour. Lower left: Captain Wilkins inspecting the installation of oil burners necessary for warmth in the polar regions. Lower right: Captain Wilkins looking over the new dual-wheel and skid construction of the landing gear, the skids being designed for landing on snow or ice.

FIRST LADY LOOKS UP TO SON

This, the latest photo of John Coolidge and his mother, Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, shows how tall he has become. This photo was taken when they visited Mrs. Coolidge's mother, Mrs. Elmira Goodhue, at Northampton, Mass., where she was seriously ill of influenza, just prior to Mrs. Coolidge's departure for Havana to attend the Pan-American congress.

PURCHASED AT POLICE AUCTION

Six bits was the price paid at a police auction sale at Indianapolis, Ind., for this "Cyclopedia of Useful Information," by Al Farb, a professional bondsman. Inside the book he found a bottle half filled with red corn whiskey, which the police had failed to detect. "You never can tell," says Farb, who is delighted with his buy.

Jesuit School Head

The Rev. William Magee, Jesuit educator and administrator, succeeds the Rev. Albert S. Fox, as president of Marquette University, Milwaukee, Wis. He is 42, one of the youngest men ever to assume the presidency of a Jesuit university.

NATION-WIDE SEARCH UNDER WAY FOR GIRL

MARIONETTES HERE DELIGHT AUDIENCE ON THURSDAY NIGHT

Carried here on Aladdin's Magic Carpet, Tony Sarg's Marionettes flew into the city and presented that gala performance, "All Baba and the Forty Thieves" for the delight of a fair-sized audience in Jean B. Elwell Auditorium, Central High School, Thursday night.

The play started with a bright prologue in which Scherherazade brought before the Sultan of the Indies familiar visions: The Magic Carpet, the Flying Horse, the Genie and the Fisherman and a scene in which Sinbad the Sailor finds safety from drowning by riding a gigantic fish. But the Sultan declared that the tale of All Baba, the poor woodchopper and how he found riches, was his favorite. So this tale was unfolded to the delight of old and young.

It is an extraordinarily clever presentation in which many animals participate: All Baba's amusing donkeys, Abou and Muru; Agib, the fiery steed ridden by Danhasch, leader of the Forty Thieves; a flock of sheep attacked by a barking dog, a camel and even an elephant.

But the highest point in puppet dexterity was the dancing of Morziana, the beautiful slave girl, just before the stabbing of Danhasch in the last scene. She kicked, she bent backward, she did the split and she even wriggled in Oriental fashion. And the juggler who preceded her in the entertaining of the disguised robber chief was equally diverting.

This year's Marionette production is possibly the most elaborate and wonderful spectacle ever staged by the famous puppet wizard and well-known magazine illustrator.

The rich oriental scenic decorations to which the story lends itself, the colorful lighting effects, the special music setting and all the other details of the performance equal if not surpass anything ever before attempted on the puppet stage.

After watching the performance, the spectators became so adjusted mentally to the idea the Marionettes were life-size human beings, that a curious optical illusion took place when a member of the company stepped upon the stage amid the puppets at the conclusion of the show.

The program of the Marionettes Friday morning and afternoon, for grade and high school children respectively, was especially designed to please those youngsters who want to go to bed early and dream about what they saw on the fascinating puppet stage.

ALLEGED BOND JUMPER BEING HELD HERE FOR IOWA OFFICERS

Alleged to have jumped a $500 bond on a liquor charge at Waterloo, Ia., Charles Lovelough, 30, Perry St., Dayton, O., is being held in the County Jail pending possible extradition proceedings necessary to return him to the Iowa city.

Lovelough, who has been sought since the middle of January, was arrested in Dayton Thursday by the Montgomery County sheriff and brought to Xenia.

The case had its origin in January when Sheriff Ohmer Tate received a letter from a man named Cole at Fort Dodge, Ia., inquiring for information concerning his son, C. P. Cole, who was said to have been stranded in Greene County.

The letter declared his son had been accompanied on a motor trip east by Lovelough, an uncle of the youth, and that the boy had sent a wire to his father requesting money.

The father asserted he sent the money but that his son failed to return home and that the boy's mother was almost distracted with anxiety for his safety.

Several days afterward the sheriff located Cole near Trebeins. Sheriff Tate learned the boy has since returned home.

Later Sheriff Tate received a telegram from H. T. Wagner, sheriff at Waterloo, Ia., asserting Lovelough was wanted in that city for bond forfeiture. Sheriff Wagner requested that the fugitive be detained.

THIS WOMAN FOUND RELIEF

After Long Suffering by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

In a little town of the Middle West, was a discouraged woman. For four months she had been in such poor health that she could not stoop to put on her own shoes. Unable to do her work, unable to go out of doors or enjoy a friendly chat with her neighbors, life seemed dark indeed to Mrs. Daugherty.

Then one day, a booklet was left at her front door. Idly she turned the pages. Soon she was reading with quickened interest. The little booklet was filled with letters from women in conditions similar to hers who had found better health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I began taking the Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Daugherty writes, "and after I took the third bottle, I found relief. I am on my eleventh bottle and I don't have that trouble any more, and feel like a different woman. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to everyone I see who has trouble like mine. I am willing to answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Ed. DAUGHERTY, 1308 Orchard Ave., Muscatine, Iowa.

WHEN TIME IS MONEY

In no line of work is time a more important element than in farm work. When planting time comes every hour of favorable working weather means dollars. The wheat must be cut in those few days after it is ripe but before it is ready to shatter. All through the seasons time simply means money. That is the reason it means so much to a farmer to own machinery that has a service station close at hand. Long delay in getting repairs or replacements for some small mishap to machinery is costly business. A day lost in a busy season means a cutting down of the year's profits. That is one reason why

MARIONETTES HERE DELIGHT AUDIENCE ON THURSDAY NIGHT

Carried here on Aladdin's Magic Carpet, Tony Sarg's Marionettes flew into the city and presented that gala performance, "Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves" for the delight of a fair-sized audience in Jean B. Elwell Auditorium, Central High School, Thursday night.

The play started with a bright prologue in which Scherherazade brought before the Sultan of the Indies familiar visions: The Magic Carpet, the Flying Horse, the Genie and the Fisherman and a scene in which Sinbad the Sailor finds safety from drowning by riding a gigantic fish. But the Sultan declared that the tale of Ali Baba, the poor woodchopper and how he found riches, was his favorite. So this tale was unfolded to the delight of old and young.

It is an extraordinarily clever presentation in which many animals participate: Ali Baba's amusing donkeys, Abou and Mam, the fiery steed ridden by Danhasch, leader of the Forty Thieves, a flock of sheep attacked by a barking dog, a camel and even an elephant.

But the highest point in puppet dexterity was the dancing of Moriana, the beautiful slave girl, just before the stabbing of Danhasch in the last scene. She kicked, she bent backward, she did the split and she even wriggled in Oriental fashion. And the juggler who preceded her in the entertaining of the disguised robber chief was equally diverting.

This year's Marionette production is possibly the most elaborate and wonderful spectacle ever staged by the famous puppet wizard and well-known magazine illustrator.

The rich oriental scenic decorations to which the story lends itself, the colorful lighting effects, the special music setting and all the other details of the performance equal if not surpass anything ever before attempted on the puppet stage.

After watching the performance, the spectators became so adjusted mentally to the idea the Marionettes were life-size human beings, that a curious optical illusion took place when a member of the company stepped upon the stage amid the puppets at the conclusion of the show.

The program of the Marionettes Friday morning and afternoon, for grade and high school children respectively, was especially designed to please those youngsters who want to go to bed early and dream about what they saw on the fascinating puppet stage.

ALLEGED BOND JUMPER BEING HELD HERE FOR IOWA OFFICERS

Alleged to have jumped a $500 bond on a liquor charge at Waterloo, Ia., Charles Lovelough, 30, Perry St., Dayton, O., is being held in the County Jail pending possible extradition proceedings necessary to return him to the Iowa city.

Lovelough, who has been sought since the middle of January, was arrested in Dayton Thursday by the Montgomery County sheriff and brought to Xenia.

The case had its origin in January when Sheriff Ohmer Tate received a letter from a man named Cole at Fort Dodge, Ia., inquiring for information concerning his son, C. P. Cole, who was said to have been stranded in Greene County. The letter declared his son had been accompanied on a motor trip east by Lovelough, an uncle of the youth, and that the boy had sent a wire to his father requesting money.

The father asserted he sent the money but that his son failed to return home and that the boy's mother was almost distracted with anxiety for his safety.

Several days afterward the sheriff located Cole near Trebeins. Sheriff Tate learned the boy has since returned home.

Later Sheriff Tate received a telegram from H. T. Wagner, sheriff at Waterloo, Ia., asserting Lovelough was wanted in that city for bond forfeiture. Sheriff Wagner requested that the fugitive be detained.

THIS WOMAN FOUND RELIEF

After Long Suffering by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

In a little town of the Middle West, was a discouraged woman. For four months she had been in such poor health that she could not stoop to put on her own shoes. Unable to do her work, unable to go out of doors or enjoy a friendly chat with her neighbors, life seemed dark indeed to Mrs. Daugherty.

Then one day, a booklet was left at her front door. Idly she turned the pages. Soon she was reading with quickened interest. The little booklet was filled with letters from women in conditions similar to hers who had found better health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. "I began taking the Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Daugherty writes, "and after I took the third bottle, I found relief. I am on my eleventh bottle and I don't have that trouble any more and feel like a different woman. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to everyone I see who has trouble like mine. I am willing to answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. R. D. Daugherty, 1308 Orchard Ave., Muscatine, Iowa.

HAVE YOU A LITTLE OLD LITERARY GEM HIDDEN IN ATTIC?

LOS ANGELES, Cal. Feb. 3.—Now that spring is coming and the house shows need of a new coat of paint, Christmas bills still are unpaid and Uncle Sam wants his income tax why not search the garret and see if it contains any literary gems worth a fortune?

"Cobwebs in many musty attics hide veritable gold mines in priceless first editions books," said Philip H. Rosenbach, famous New York and Philadelphia bibliographer, who is in Los Angeles today.

"A set of first editions of Dickens' Pickwick Papers, a collection of twenty parts printed separately and sold for a shilling each, recently brought $16,000," said Rosenbach.

It is in the homes of old families that a search for literary treasure trove should be made, Rosenbach counseled.

By chance you may have carelessly put away a letter which the late Woodrow Wilson wrote you. If so your fears of poverty are over, for Rosenbach said it is almost impossible now to find a Wilson letter that is not in somebody's collection and highly prized.

"The most valuable collection of Americana in the world is that housed in the Pasadena library of the late Henry E. Huntington, New York and California traction magnate. It is worth $30,000,000, Rosenbach said.

"Next to Shakespeare and early editions of the Bible, the works of Charles Dickens bring the highest prices," Rosenbach stated.

SOCIAL SERVICE LEAGUE DRIVE WILL START AT JOINT LUNCHEON

Plans for the annual drive for funds for the Social Service League are being given their final touches, according to officials of the organization. The start of the campaign will be signaled by a joint luncheon of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs Tuesday at the Elks' Club, to be attended by business men and women of the city.

E. H. Heathman is chairman of the campaign committee and under his supervision details are being formulated whereby every citizen of Xenia will be given the opportunity to contribute to the work of the League. The quota set for the drive this year is $5,400. "We feel that this amount is comparatively low, considering the size of Xenia and the need for welfare work here," Mr. Heathman stated. "If everyone will do his share there is no reason why we shouldn't go over the top."

Although records of the League open to anyone interested show a great amount of work accomplished the past year, those in charge of the organization feel that more general support on the part of the public will enable them to render larger service to the community and to undertake work needed on behalf of the unfortunate, but which has been impossible due to a lack of funds.

"The League is a friend to the church of God, the sick, the aged, the neglected, the children who are victims of criminal parents or of unfortunate conditions," says Mrs. George Stokes, executive secretary. "We act as good neighbors to these and to the injured and to those not having mentality enough to plan their own lives. Shall these suffer, shall our service to them be stunted, because of Xenia's failure to respond in full measure to their call?"

WORLD BETTER

We know of thousands upon thousands of dollars being spent each year to educate children—not only week-day religious instruction, but other very important lines of education. Music also. Mrs. Mary Curtis Bok, of Philadelphia, just lately gave $12,500.00 to be used in musical education for boys and girls who desire that kind of an education, not financially able. Admission to this Curtis Institute of Music is by examination only. This free tuition is under great masters. Mrs. Bok's first endowment was $500,000. This later gift gives the institute an assured annual income of three quarters of a million.

More than 50,000 Ohio school children are enrolled this year in week-day classes in religious education, conducted by groups of churches in many cities and communities as co-operative enterprises. Cincinnati has about 7,000 pupils, a growth over last year of about 2,000. Miss Esther Comb is now in her fourth year as supervisor. Classes are conducted in churches, Y. M. C. A.'s and other buildings. Cincinnati has fourteen paid teachers employed. Toledo has a registration of about 6,000 pupils. Other week-day religious educational centers in the state include Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton and Montgomery County, directed by the County Council of Religious Education, have about 13,000 pupils. Miss Blanch Currier, supervisor, from Boston University in 1922. Teachers are on a salary basis. Dayton has twenty paid teachers. All teachers have had professional training in religious education. Some are giving their lives and money in an effort to build up a great system of week-day schools, which will accomplish desirable results.

Anyone thinking the youth of today is going to the bad—surely would change their thinking if they attended the Ohio Christian Endeavor convention in July 1927. More than twenty-two thousand youngsters marched twelve abreast, rank upon rank in that parade. This convention was an example of enthusiastic, cheering, singing, colorful gay youth. With their eyes upon the Great Leader, and a hymn on their lips, young manhood and womanhood marching through Cleveland and across the largest Christian Endeavor crusade parade of youth in his history. The whole city was moved. Their banners—"Christ The Only Hope of the World"—and singing "Like a mighty army moves the church of God; Brothers, we are Theodians where the saints have trod. We are not divided, all one body we, One in hope and doctrine, one in charity." Over and over again the young speakers reminded the throngs that prohibition was a winning crusade. One statement was that any political party that strays away from a declaration of strict enforcement of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act in 1925 will be buried.

The cynical need never again, say the youth of today is going to the bad. The support and enthusiasm of youth works so that great causes endure long. The youth crusade stands forth as one of the mightiest Christian forces of the world. Thousands upon thousands of people are doing good with their time and money and the great army of youngsters is strong in showing the world it's growing better. The devil is getting very few comparatively. From the time Cain killed his brother, horrible murders have been. King Herod in his effort to have Jesus killed, ordered all the children two years old and under in Bethlehem and surrounding country killed. In 1893 in Hamilton County, Ohio, the Ross family was murdered. Mrs. Ross and four children were killed with an axe. One little girl three years old escaped by getting under the bed behind the trundlebed. A man by the name of Hoover was hanged for this murder on circumstantial evidence, being minus his thumb on right hand, and on the window sill four blood-stained fingerprints told the tale which hang Mr. Ross. Confessed he killed his wife and children, a short time before he died in U. S. Asylum.

Murders are almost unbelievable, yet we know the devil is always at all times arrayed against the good.

Theodore Roosevelt once said, "I wish today to dwell upon this thought, that while in this country we need wise laws, honestly and fearlessly enacted, and while we cannot afford to tolerate anything but the highest standards in public service of the government, yet in the last analysis the future of our country must depend upon the quality of the individual home, of the individual man or woman in that home." The future of this country depends upon the way in which the average man and the average woman in it does his or her duty and that largely depends upon the way in which the average boy or girl is brought up.

MODEL WILL MARRY YOUNG PUBLISHER

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Miss Dorothy James Smart, "the most photographed girl in the world," is going to marry Edward Lyman Bill, wealthy young publisher of New Rochelle. The date of the wedding has not been announced, however.
Miss Smart, a pretty, blonde dress model, is the daughter of Mr. Eugene F. Verdery, 3rd, of Atlanta, Ga., and Searsville, N. Y.
Dressmakers have called Miss Smart's type of beauty "ideal." Her form and features have appeared in thousands of magazine clothing advertisements. A year ago she was chosen by Jean Patou as one of four American girls to go to Paris as models in his establishment there.
Her fiancé is thirty. He is the son of the late Col. Edward Lyman Bill, for many years editor of the music trade review. He is an official of two publishing companies and has offices and a residence in New York City. He formerly attended Wisconsin University.
Miss Smart would not say today whether her marriage will cause her to give up modeling.

CUPID VICTORIOUS OVER DIVORCES

Cupid was victorious in the race with the divorce courts during the month of January in Greene County, marriage and divorce records reveal.
Eight marriage licenses were granted and six refused by the license bureau in Probate Court.
Common Pleas Court severed six marriage ties, granting four divorces to women and two to men.

Mrs. Stanley Baldwin, wife of England's prime minister, recently entertained at tea the charwomen who clean No. 10 Downing Street, London, official home of the nation's premiers.

"The delegation of Massachusetts club women is to be known as 'Singing Massachusetts' while attending the biennial convention of the General Federation at San Antonio, Texas, May 29 to June 6. A singing contest will be held in the spring and the winner will lead the delegation."

"I wish today to dwell upon this thought, that while in this country we need wise laws, honestly and fearlessly excited, and while we cannot afford to tolerate anything but the highest standards in public service of the government, yet in the last analysis the future of our country must depend upon the quality of the individual home, of the individual man or woman in that home." The future of this country depends upon the way in which the average man and the average woman in it does his or her duty and that largely depends upon the way in which the average boy or girl is brought up.

READ THIS FIRST:
Jill Justin, ultra-modern and as lambently lovely at 20 as the Saga Lily, starts out on a moon-light night in August, accompanied by her brother Tony, to attend a harvest festival.

The two run into an automobile hold-up, a girl is kidnapped by bandits, who carry her into the hills, from where she is rescued by Jack Stuart, who takes her home.

It is the old story retold. Jack stays for a visit and remains to wed the lovely Jill. The passing of two years finds them the proud and happy parents of twin boys and a girl.

Now transpires an event destined to bring about radical changes in the lives of these people. Wandering through the hills back of the Justin home, Stuart stumbles onto an old abandoned mine. He also discovers what he believes to be ore-bearing rock.

It is Tony, however, in the following April, who brings in the big news. He is inveigled into the hills by a pretty girl, who tells him her name is Mary, but that she is "called Mike!" Mary, who is called "Mike" is driving a costly roadster, and she asks Tony to guide her to a place in the hills known as The Devil's Luck. Here she takes the lead and pilots him into an electrically lighted chamber. After telling him that his and Stuart's tax title mine yields an ore rich in tungsten content, Tony gets another jolt, "Mike" has disappeared right before his eyes. Five minutes later she suddenly reappears, accompanied by an aldermanic-looking personage whom she introduced as "Dad" or Pat Sweeney, her father. Following a short talk, Mike shows Tony the secret of her mysterious disappearance. This is an electrically operated door, swung open on a pivot in the rocky wall, and connecting with another chamber fitted up as a laboratory. Tony has already learned their tax title mine yields a tungsten-bearing ore of rich content.

Tony listens to an offer of $100,000 from Pat Sweeney for a one-fourth interest in the tax title purchase.

Tony agrees to talk the proposition over with Jack Stuart and his father, Peter Justin.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XIII
She had told him that her mother died when she was six. She had only a vague memory of her. She was now twenty-two. For sixteen years Pat Sweeney had been both father and mother to her. She had laid a hand on his arm; in her eyes the look of a penitent child.

"We understand each other, any way, don't we, old timer?" she said, purring, as she patted his purple-tinted paw. Then she suddenly added, in a high-pitched tone: "But what's th' big idea, holdin' this talk fest here? I f'r one, propose that we attend to th' business we came here for!" She addressed herself more directly to her father.

"Th' next thing on th' program, it seems to me," she said, after the manner of a speaker at a woman's political meeting, "is for Tony to consult his brother-in-law as he suggested, put your proposal up to him, and fix matters for a meeting of you all!"

Arrangements were quickly made for a meeting that evening. Following this the trio made their way out by the same route that Mike and Tony had used upon entering.

One of Pat Sweeney's "bys" was waiting for him in a flivver parked a few rods below "The Devil's Luck." This was the conveyance that would take Pat back to town. While the automobiles which went to make up the Sweeney entourage numbered five, big and little, including Mike's roadster, a $15,000 limousine, two sedans and the flivver coupe, it was the last. "If he beats me home in that—that flivver—he'll crow for a month!" cried Mike as Tony and she approached the roadster. "And he'll probably beat me," she went on, almost tearfully, "for he'll take that crosscut two miles below th' State road. He says th' two roads run parallel and are an equal distance to th' courthouse. But he knows, and I know, it's half a mile shorter. He knows you live on th' State road and I gotta drive you home. And that—that Sooky Thing—will beat me again! And he just thinks she is—is—"

Tony missed hearing what Sooky was or was thought to be, for Mike at that moment pulled on a pair of gauntlets and was inserting her lithe body underneath and behind the big steering wheel, with its glittering array of levers, push-buttons and what-not. He stretched out at a 75-degree angle in the cushioned seat at her side, and pulled shut the door.

There was a roar, that almost lifted the hair from his head and fairly shook his unshakable conscience from its moorings, and then a sudden start that snapped his head back with a jerk. They were on their way!

Rocks and trees along the road-side merged into an indistinguishable blur. The roar gradually died down to a throbbing, pulsating purr, but a purr that seemed of itself to be a thing of life, vital, breathing, thrilling, all-powerful life! It seemed almost to communicate and identify itself with the life in his own body, to be a part of him!

His glance shifted to the girl under the wheel. Her face was white, the line of the mouth tense. To his excited fancy she seemed to be the living embodiment of indomitable Purpose, of Sure Intent!

He remembered the "calling down" she had given the "Sooky Thing" the look in her eyes, and it suddenly occurred to him to wonder what Pat Sweeney loved the best.

It was his boast that his "Sooky Ann" possessed "th' legs of Nancy Hanks," the "heart of Maud S," and the shape of "a Broadway Pelican." Sooky was a Go-getter and a Bringer-back. She never balked, she never talked—and you never walked with Sooky!

Mike hated Sooky, loathed her as only a woman can loathe another woman. For in Mike's eyes Sooky was feminine gender—"a female of the species," the only female for which her Dad had ever fallen—in Mike's time. Hence her hatred of Sooky.

Therefore, when Pat Sweeney casually remarked to Tony: "Tell yer frind, Mike, that we'll be waitin' yer her at home, Sooky'n'!" "Frind" Mike gritted her white teeth and swore soft and lady-like—as a lady should swear.

Therefore, when Pat Sweeney casually remarked to Tony: "Tell yer frind, Mike, that we'll be waitin' yer her at home, Sooky'n'!" "Frind" Mike gritted her white teeth and swore soft and lady-like—as a lady should swear.

der if such a thing could be? Could a woman be jealous of an inanimate object, such, for instance, as a car? Then he remembered the car's name—Sooky? As the possibility of the ridiculous thing struck him he laughed. Then he laughed again.

So men have laughed down through the ages at what they deemed Woman's absurdities, eccentricities and idiosyncrasies. The very possibility that Mike could be jealous of "Sooky Ann," the flivver-ette, was a howling joke to Tony. He couldn't grasp the psychology of the thing.

And yet, as a matter of fantastic truth, that was just what had come to pass. Mike was jealous of Sooky, the balkless, talkless, walkless equal to Tony's own: "Goodness, Sooky, jealous of the flivver-ette! And the flivver-ette, cared not."

Tony Justin, following a custom long established by his father, that of making his parent his first confidante in everything of importance, sought the elder Justin immediately upon his return from the hire with the "gyral Mike." He found Peter alone in the family sitting room, deeply immersed in a volume of Don Quixote, one of his favorite characters of fiction.

With but little prefacing, Tony unfolded to his father the story of his day's adventure, outlining in detail everything from the girl's arrival in the roadster, his self-introduction, her invitation for him to act as her guide up to and including his meeting with Pat Sweeney and then the astonishing proposition entailing the offer combined of $125,000 to Jack Stuart and himself.

Peter Justin gave vent to a long-drawn breath at the astounding news. "One hundred and twenty-six thousand dollars!" he repeated, in a tone almost of reverence, and to pass Mike was jealous of Sooky, then added with an enthusiasm equal to Tony's own: "Goodness, gracious, boy, that's a lot of money!"

"It's $63,333 and more!" asserted Tony, a tremulous huskiness in his voice that he tried vainly to conceal. "Just think, Pop, what $63,000 in cold cash means to a young fellow just starting out in life, like me! And think what it would mean to Jack and Jill! Lordy! I'll bet Jill'll faint with pure delight when she gets th' news!"

"Jill hasn't got th' news yet, m' son," the elder Justin reminded his visionary offspring from out of the fund of his more practical experience. "And I'm not altogether certain," he added, "that she'll ever get it. There are many things to take into consideration, you must remember, in a matter of this kind that wouldn't need to be thought of in a situation with which we were all thoroughly familiar. And I am not at all certain as to how Jack will look at this thing. You know how he feels toward any ex-service man. He thinks they've all been unjustly treated, so we can be pretty sure that if he feels this lost soldier is being defrauded in any way he'll put up a strenuous fight."

It was just as Peter had surmised.

ed. When Jack Stuart had been supposed to have died in France thoroughly enlightened regarding was still alive, he declared instantly the proposal made by Pat Sweeney by the ex-service man's rights and heard that Davison, the soldier would have to be considered.

Tired people . . .

So MANY women, so many men, can't last through the day. Even mid-afternoon finds them listless and spent. Hopelessly tired.

What a difference it would mean if they but realized how constipation saps health and energy. How it steals youth. Mocks beauty. Kills ambition. How it leads in the end to untold diseases.

And it can be so easily relieved. So surely and safely prevented. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve it promptly and pleasantly. To prevent it ever beginning its deadly work.

Why "all-bran" is necessary

To relieve constipation naturally, the system must have plenty of bulk. ALL-BRAN, because it is 100% bran, furnishes bulk in generous quantity. It carries moisture through the intestines—exercising them, gently sweeping out poisons and wastes. There is seldom enough bulk to properly do this work in a part-bran product. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN—the 100% bran.

Farewell, dangerous drugs

How much better is ALL-BRAN than habit-forming pills and laxatives—whose dose must be constantly increased to remain effective. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a pleasant, healthful cereal food. Don't you agree that it is far safer and far better to correct constipation in this natural way than to risk pills, drugs or part-bran products?

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is delicious with milk or cream—with fruits or honey added. Use it in cooking too. Sprinkle it into soups. Mix it with other cereals. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal.

But insist on genuine Kellogg's. Don't risk part-bran substitutes. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served in hotels, restaurants. On dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Guaranteed!
Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

Sore Throat Is Dangerous

Throxine Relieves Quickly

Don't neglect sore throat—it often leads to tonsillitis, scarlet fever, or diphtheria. Take Throxine, a famous physician's prescription, which is remarkably successful because it works on a new principle—goes direct to the cause not reached by gargles and patent medicines and brings relief within 15 minutes or money back. One swallow does the work.

Contains no iron, chloroform or other harmful drugs. Safe and sure—pleasant to take—much better than gargles. Ask for Throxine, 35c, 60c and $1.00. Sold by Sohn's Drug Store and all good drug stores.

Mike hated Sooky, loathed her as only a woman can loathe another woman. For in Mike's eyes Sooky was feminine gender—a female of the species—the only female for which her Dad had ever fallen—in Mike's time. Hence her hatred of Sooky.

Therefore, when Pat Sweeney casually remarked to Tony: "Tell yer frind, Mike, that we'll be waitin' fer her at home, Sooky'n I," "Frind" Mike gritted her white teeth and swore soft and lady-like—as a lady should swear.

Sore Throat

Is Dangerous

Toxine Relieves Quickly

Don't neglect sore throat—it often leads to tonsillitis, scarlet fever or diphtheria. Take Toxine, a famous physician's prescription, which is remarkably successful because it works on a new principle—goes direct to the cause not reached by gargles and patent medicines and brings relief within 15 minutes or money back. One swallow does the work.

Contains no iron, chloroform or other harmful drugs. Safe and sure—pleasant to take—much better than gargles. Ask for Toxine, 35c, 60c and $1.00. Sold by Drug Store and all good drug stores.

der if such a thing could be? Could a woman be jealous of an inanimate object, such, for instance, as a car? Then he remembered the car's name—Sooky! As the possibility of the ridiculous thing struck him he laughed. Then he laughed again.

So men have laughed down through the ages at what they deemed Woman's absurdities, eccentricities and idiosyncrasies. The very possibility that Mike could be jealous of "Sooky Ann," the flivverette, was a howling joke to Tony. He couldn't grasp the psychology of the thing.

And yet, as a matter of fantastic truth, that was just what had come to pass. Mike was jealous of Sooky, the balkless, talkless, walkless equal to Tony's own: "Goodness

Sooky, jealous of the flivverette! And the flivverette, cursed not.

Tony Justin, following a custom long established by his father, that of making his parent his first confidante in everything of importance, sought the elder Justin immediately upon his return from the hire with the "gyrul Mike." He found Peter alone in the family sitting room, deeply immersed in a volume of Don Quixote, one of his favorite characters of fiction.

With but little prefacing, Tony unfolded to his father the story of his day's adventure, outlining in detail everything from the girl's arrival in the roadster, his self-introduction, her invitation for him to get as her guide up to and including his meeting with Pat Sweeney and then the astonishing proposition entailing the offer combined of $125,665.66 to Jack Stuart and himself.

Peter Justin gave vent to a long-drawn breath at the astounding news.

"One hundred and twenty-six thousand dollars!" he repeated, in sure that if he feels this lost soldier is being defrauded in any way he'll put up a strenuous fight."

gracious, boy, that's a lot of money!"

"It's $23,333 and more!" asserted Tony, a tremulous huskiness in his voice that he tried vainly to conceal. "Just think, Pop, what $23,000 in cold cash means to a young fellow just starting out in life, like me! And think what it would mean to Jack and Jill! Lordy! I'll bet Jill'll faint with pure delight when she gets the news!"

"Jill hasn't got the news yet, m' son," the elder Justin reminded his visionary offspring from out of the fund of his more practical experience. "And I'm not altogether certain," he added, "that she'll ever get it. There are many things to take into consideration, you must remember, in a matter of this kind that wouldn't need to be thought of in a situation with which we were all thoroughly familiar. And I am not at all certain as to how Jack will look at this thing. You know how he feels toward any ex-service man. He thinks they've all been unjustly treated, so we can be pretty sure that if he feels this lost soldier is being defrauded in any way he'll put up a strenuous fight."

It was just as Peter had surmised.

Tired people . . .

So MANY women, so many men, can't last through the day. Even mid-afternoon finds them listless and spent. Hopelessly tired.

What a difference it would mean if they but realized how constipation saps health and energy. How it steals youth. Mocks beauty. Kills ambition. How it leads in the end to untold diseases.

And it can be so easily relieved. So surely and safely prevented. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve it promptly and pleasantly. To prevent it ever beginning its deadly work.

Why "all-bran" is necessary

To relieve constipation naturally, the system must have plenty of bulk. ALL-BRAN, because it is 100% bran, furnishes bulk in generous quantity. It carries moisture through the intestines—exercising them, gently sweeping out poisons and wastes. There is seldom enough bulk to properly do this work in a part-bran product. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN—the 100% bran.

Farewell, dangerous drugs

How much better is ALL-BRAN than habit-forming pills and laxatives—whose dose must be constantly increased to remain effective. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a pleasant, healthful cereal food. Don't you agree that it is far safer and far better than to risk pills, drugs or part-bran products?

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is delicious with milk or cream—with fruits or honey added. Use it in cooking too. Sprinkle it into soups. Mix it with other cereals. Just eat two tablespoons daily—chronic cases, with every meal.

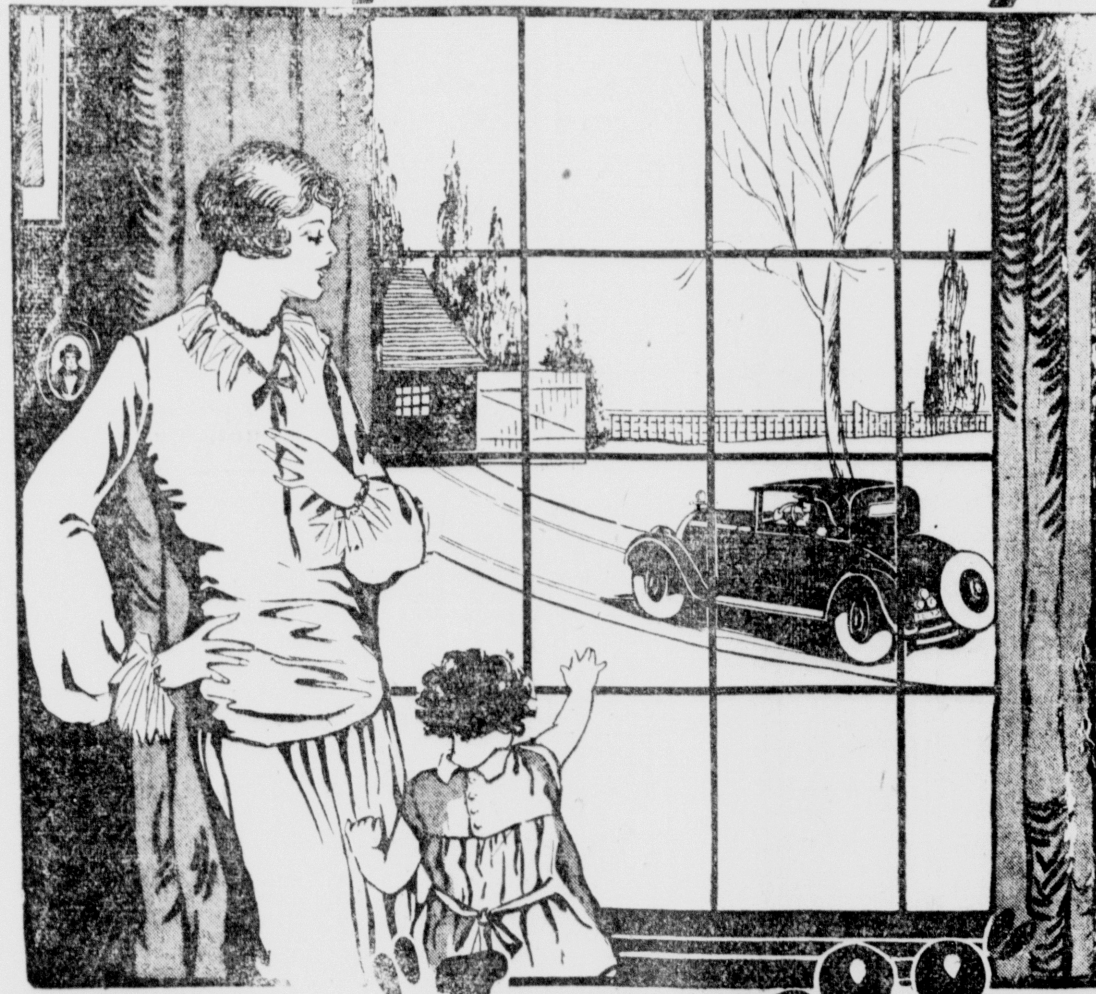

But insist on genuine Kellogg's. Don't risk part-bran substitutes. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served in hotels, restaurants. On dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Guaranteed! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.
